

Announcing the Second Annual Girls With Wings™ Scholarship!

We are pleased to announce that we will be now accepting applications for the 2nd Annual GWW Scholarship. Applications are to be an essay with photo stating why the applicant believes she is a role model for Girl With Wings™, to include her motivation, inspirations and future plans. There is no minimum or maximum length required in the essays; quality and completeness are key. There is no need to submit financial information, but if a factor, can be discussed in the essay. The only prerequisite is that applicants must not have yet received her private pilot's license. Applicants agree to possibly have portions of or their entire essays and pictures posted on the GWW website. Deadline for submission is November 1st, 2008.

One scholarship winner will be notified December 1st, 2008 and be sent a check for $500 to be used toward flying lessons at the flight school of her choice. The winner will be ultimately determined by the President of Girls With Wings™/Very Important Pilots, LLC. The awardee agrees to have her winning essay posted on the website and to submit at least three pictures taking during flight training. In addition, the winner agrees to submit a final essay summarizing how the scholarship helped her, what she learned, and her intent to continue her work as a role model for Girls With Wings™, and her education, flight training and otherwise, by July 1st, 2009 or return the awarded amount. All awardee submissions are to be released for use by Girls With Wings™ and its parent company, Very Important Pilot, LLC, at our discretion.

You must email your application (and attach a photo) to: Scholarship@GirlsWithWings.com.
